TERRORISM is, in the broadest sense the use of intentionally indiscriminate violence as a means to create terror or fear.

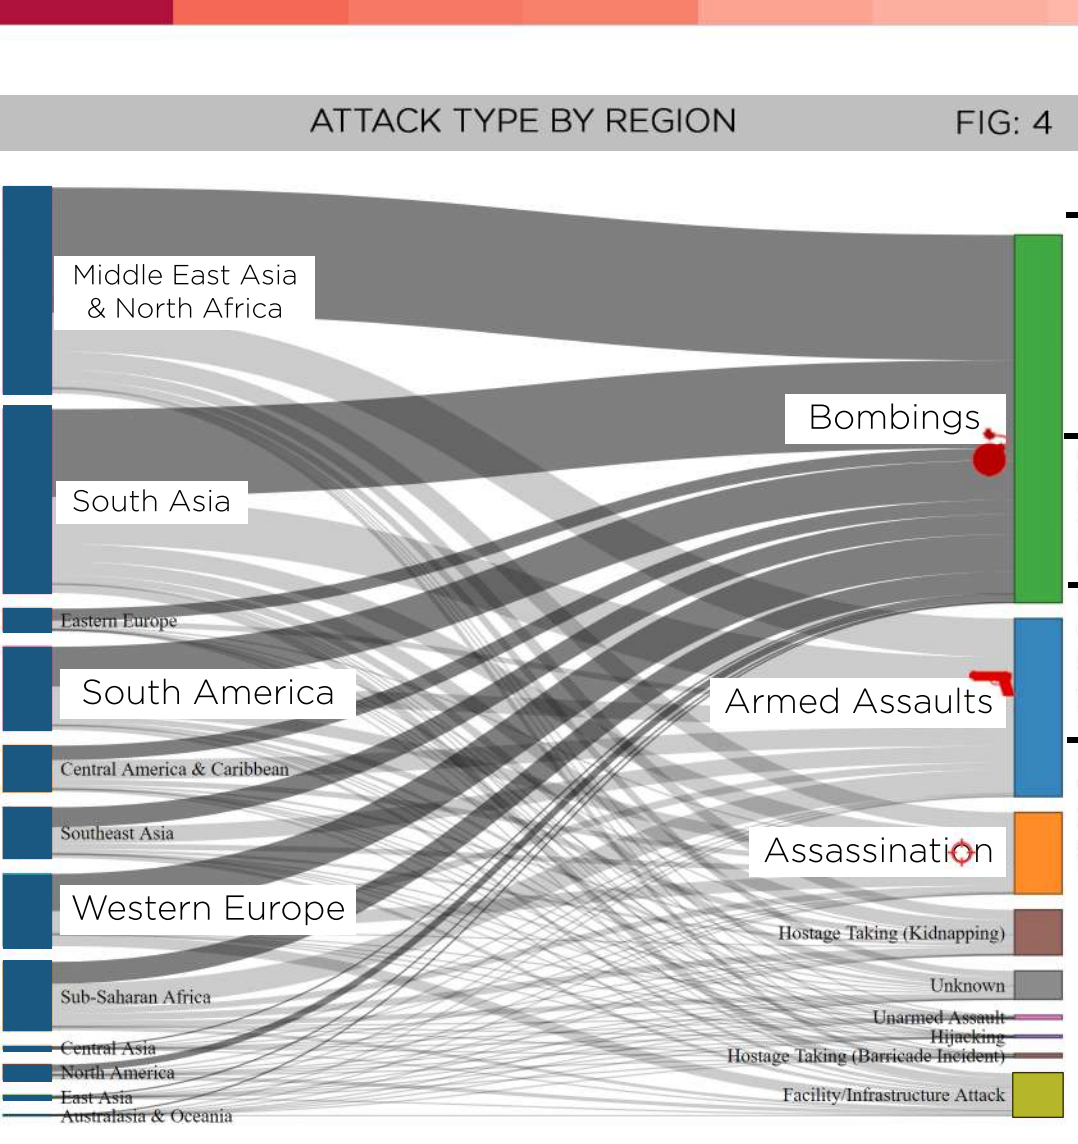

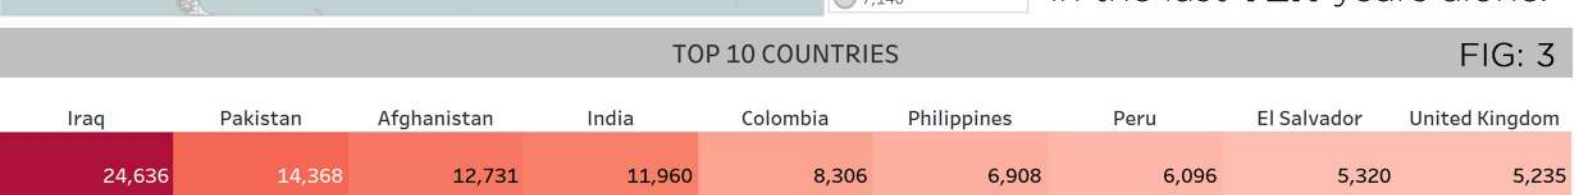

Underdeveloped & developing countries have the most number of terrorist attacks.

BAGHDAD is the city with maximum deaths due to terrorist attacks. Fatalities accounted to 38% of overall affected people

45% people KILLED belong to just FIVE countries.

41 countries were affected in the last TEN years alone.

The alluvial diagram represents the flow of attack types by region. The size of the link between region and attack type portrays its magnitude.

Most incidents are in MIDDLE EAST, NORTH AFRICA & SOUTH ASIA

BOMBING/EXPLOSIONS account around 40% of attacks followed by armed assaults.

Also it can be observed that AUSTRALIA AND OCEANIA are relatively SAFE regions.

73% of people were killed by Bombing in IRAQ

The maximum deaths were in year 2014 in IRAQ: 13,965 DEATHS

In IRAQ, it is justifiable, the military is the third most common target but the loss of private citizens and property is disheartening.

In AFGHANISTAN, due to the civil war. Attacks on the police officers is higher than any other target type.

Not so surprisingly, other countries like INDIA & PAKISTAN have a higher loss in citizens as a result of terror attacks.

Other countries also have a similar trend. Only the countries struggling through a civil war have higher fatality counts in law enforcing offices.

The recent attacks by ISIL, which were highly motivated & more sophisticated in terms of execution, resulted in higher mortality counts.

TALIBAN was formed in 1970s' and has claimed a lot of lives since then. Afghanistan is still actively fighting againsts Taliban.

BOKO HARAM is a militant group in Nigeria, which has claimed villages upon villages, causing over 20,000 deaths.

IRAQ has suffered the worst of terrorism & city of BAGHDAD has received the worst end of it.
